A party of three prospectors arrived from Winnipeg on Thursday's train to explore the head waters of Smoky river during the coming season for gold and other treasures. They are Messrs. La Plante, of Red River settlement, guide, and Messrs. Hayes, of Winnipeg, and McIntyre, of Kingston, Ont. They will start this week and hope to cross the McLeod river on the ice.

W. GUTHRIE writes from Grand Forks, B. C., on March 25th, 1896: A word or two to the friends of the River country may enlighten my friends and many people of the northern country. I left Edmonton last September, after a trip on the Peace and other northern streams, to prospect the Slokan country, but my time was occupied with a party, fishing and hunting, on the West Kootenay lakes. The caribou and trout were both plentiful, as the sport lasted till the latter part of October. Then I went to Kootenay River, where I have stayed ever since. I have seen a good deal of the country and heard a good deal, and the prospects are very good here for a man that has money, and wants to prospect. There is plenty of mineral here for those who seek it at present, I discovered a pretty fair location, but the snow here prevents a person from prospecting on the hills, although this winter has been the finest that was ever seen by the people in this country. The grass is now green; the ranchers in the valley are plowing and seeding; and the towns around the country are slowly booming as the development of mines is going on. But this country offers little show for a working man just now; a railroad is the talk at present, and I think they will soon have it. What they want here is capitalists. I am leaving in the course of thirty days for the Arctic and Mackenzie basin, to collect some rare specimens for a New York scientist, and am going by way of Athabasca Landing, in the meantime I will prospect for another mineral claim. I hear plenty of people talking of going to Edmonton district to settle on a farm or homestead when they sell their claims. I don't discourage them.

The Free Press, the recognized organ of the C. P. R. in the North West, has the following powerful argument against the British Pacific railway scheme: "Our excellent and highly esteemed contemporary, the Edmonton BULLETIN, is anxious for an east and west road through its district, and blames the Dominion Government for not doing it. The reason it has not done so is because of its alliance with the Canadian Pacific Company. That alliance will never be broken until the government is defeated, and the government can be defeated, only by voting against its candidates. The point of this pretty argument, which it elaborates at great length, lies in the fact that its editor is to be nominated as a candidate in opposition to the government. All BULLETIN arguments these days lead to the one conclusion—vote for its editor." While the foregoing is not just as forceful and conclusive as might reasonably be expected from a paper of the standing, and influence of the Free Press, it nevertheless has an object, and is fairly well calculated to attain its object, which is to make its readers believe that the question at issue is not the interests of the country as involved in securing effective railway competition, but the wishes of an individual to secure a certain prominent position. If the public can be made to believe the latter a great gain is made for the monopoly which supports the Free Press and which the Free Press is in turn bound to support.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, APRIL 6TH, 1896.

POLICE.

The report of the commissioner of the mounted police for 1894 is to hand, and contains a large amount of interesting information:

The force was reduced during 1894 to 780 men, including scouts and interpreters, and the cost is about $600,000 per year. The commissioner says truly: "Any saving in the above amount would in my opinion be very dearly purchased, even if only the confidence of the community in the strength and organization of the mounted police was shaken." Some 79 fresh horses were purchased during '95 at a cost of about $60 each. They were chiefly range horses from thoroughbred sires.

Regarding the Lee Metford carbine he says: "The receipt of 200 Lee Metford carbines has enabled us to retire a large number of our worst Winchester. "D" at Macleod was issued with 150 of these new carbines, 20 went to the Yukon with the detachment that went there last June, and the balance are here in the hands of crack shots. Some practice took place at Macleod, and we fixed a match there between the best shots in each division up to 700 yards. Our men made better shooting with the Winchester up to 500 yards, and while they did fairly well at longer distances, which the Winchester could not reach, it appears to me that on a windy day the very light bullet will always make the shooting irregular and for any ranges over 1,000 yards most uncertain. Before any more Lee Metfords are purchased I would recommend that they be thoroughly tested in the force."

The census taken by the police last spring gave the following result:

	White.	Halfbreed.	Total.
Alberta,	26,185,	2,598,	28,783.
Assiniboia,	33,925,	867,	34,792.
Saskatchewan,	5,763,	4,168,	9,931.
Alberta,	4,168,	9,931,
Horses,	42,257,	34,843,	6,541
Cattle,	168,598,	99,575,	20,614
Sheep,	45,816,	76,084,	6,422

The commissioner objects to giving bail to cattle thieves, and says the hide ordinance is defective in that it permits the same hide to be shown as having been taken from two different animals. Supt. Steele suggests as a remedy for this latter trouble that when a hide is presented for inspection the inspector should mark it with a peculiarly shaped punch, so that if it is ever presented again it can be identified.

The Indians on the northern reserves raised all the beef required in those bands for the sick and destitute and have also sold considerable beef for the English market.

Speaking of the low price of horses the commissioner says: "Large numbers of poor horses are driven north and east to the farming settlements, and these are traded off for cattle and oats required on the ranches, and it is astonishing to find how many people with too few cattle already will trade for horses that they do not really require."

Dr. H. Harvey, vice-president, Dr. H. Harvey, continues: "Late inquiries have been made with a view of buying up all the old and fat mares, and useless horses on the ranges for shipment to the cannery in Buffalo, U. S. The price quoted is about $10 on the ranches." Mention is made of the shipment of horses to Belgium, and to Toronto.

Speaking of prairie fires he says: "Some very disastrous fires occurred in the Edmonton district, and many settlers were burned out, and some lost everything. This will necessitate some government relief, particularly in seed grain. The luxuriant vegetation of the north causes prairie fires to be much more dangerous than in the south where the grass is much shorter. * * * Considerable dissatisfaction is manifested by the people at the apparent immunity of the railway companies. It is extremely doubtful if under their charters they can be punished at all for starting fires, although the Northwest council has passed an ordinance dealing with them."

Regarding cattle he says: "About 25,000 cattle have been shipped out of the Territories during the last year."

* * * At the prices cattle are now selling south of the line for shipment to Chicago, and the best ultimately to England, I do not think our ranchers are getting enough for their animals. Prince & Skelton, of Battleford, shipped their cattle to England and are very glad they did not sell at home for the prices offered by buyers.

About 2,750 new settlers went into the country tributary to the C. & E. railway, most of them of a good class; a few, however, had positively nothing on arrival, and will require assistance until they can get a crop.

The Yukon detachment consists of Inspt. Constantine and 19 non-commissioned officers and men. About $300,000 in gold was taken out on the Canadian side of the line.

Speaking of the failure of the police to arrest the murderer of Sergt. Colebrook, he says: "If a small reward of, say, $200 had been offered for his capture, I think he would have been in jail ere this." Then why in the name of everything sensible is not the reward offered? Murderers are certainly cheap at $200 per head. He says: "This sergeant had made a very plucky arrest of a murderer from the United States, some years ago, and was a very well behaved and conscientious man, and I trust that his widow and little son will receive an adequate pension from the government." It is certainly to be hoped so. When a man knowingly faces death in the discharge of his duty he is entitled to material and valuable consideration if he lives, and if he loses his life certainly those who are dependent on him for support should be cared for by the government as representing the public, in whose interests he lost his life. Prompt and courageous action are the first necessity in any police force. To encourage such action is to increase the efficiency of the force; and the best way to encourage it is to take valuable notice of it.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Mail and Empire Ottawa correspondent, discussing the rumors at the capital regarding the Winnipeg conference, says the reports to the government are most encouraging. Nothing definite is known as to the propositions, but, he says, in what is a probably more or less inspired article, it is not desired that what is generally known here to surmise the nature of the terms the federal representatives are prepared to offer. They are well aware that in sparsely settled districts of the province Catholics do not desire there should be two sets of schools, if those that are common are not offensive to their religion. The necessity for segregation of the two communities educationally is confined to certain well defined districts. Bearing this in mind it will not be surprising if the delegates agreed in the rural districts, outside of Provencher, there should be one set of schools at which religious training conformable to the wishes of the parents should be given after school hours and at which text books should be alike unobjectionable from a Protestant or Catholic standpoint. This admission of the principle of unity in education will clear the way to the more difficult phase of the question which presents itself everywhere. By the census of 1891 Manitoba has a population of 122,506, of which 20,571 are Roman Catholics. Nearly half of them are in Provencher. In that district, therefore, and in Winnipeg and Brandon, the Catholic population is most keenly the loss of the educational privileges. Here the educational question may be said to be most acute. It is not apart certain public schools for the use of Catholics in proportion to their numerical strength and these will be under the control of the province and public school authorities. The only difference between them and the other schools will be that Catholic religious teaching will take the place of Protestant teaching and the text books used unobjectionable to the minority. This system prevails in the larger centres of Nova Scotia. An agreement upon this basis will require action at the present session of the legislature to make it acceptable. Failing this the commissioners will find it difficult to come to terms that will stay the hand of parliament. To sum up this proposal, which after all, may be very far from what the commissioners have in mind, it means purely non-sectarian schools in districts which cannot support two sets, with Protestant and Catholic public schools in centers of population, and in districts where the people are more evenly divided in religion.

Mr. Martin moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Northwest Territories Representation Act. He claimed the act at present left the preparation of the voters' lists for the Territories entirely in the hands of enumerators appointed by the government and provided no means by which voters whose names had been left off the list could compel the enumerator to put them on. The bill remedies this. The motion for second reading was carried.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

Ottawa correspondence of the Province, Victoria B. C. "Collectively and individually the representatives of the west do it no credit. No wonder Eastern members fail to appreciate the importance of the development of the west when its own representatives lack either the energy or the ability—or both—to advocate their country's cause. The British Columbia members are such thorough going party men that they will never raise any question, however greatly our interests are concerned, that may possibly give rise to the slightest adverse criticism of the government. This is such an acknowledged fact upon both sides of the House that our members are looked upon as mere puppets, from whom an expression of opinion other than one put into their mouths would be as remarkable an occurrence as an intelligent speech from the member for Alberta."

EDITOR BULLETIN.

DEAR SIR: I wish to call the attention of the public to an item published in the last issue of the South Edmonton News. Stating that "parties" already spoken of had been soliciting ads and work, and claiming that they were going to take over that plant, but when the time came they could not raise the necessary funds. I wish to state that "I" solicited neither ads nor work. But the necessary funds, the News speaks of, was raised and is still raised, which was to buy his good will (3). The cash deposit which was to be paid on the plant was also raised and rejected, owing to a misunderstanding in regard to the balance to be paid on the plant. Hoping the public will clearly understand my motive, I remain.

Yours Truly,
M. ZEPHIR MARTIN.

A very enjoyable concert was given on Tuesday evening in Parriah's Hall under the auspices of the R. T. of T. The chief feature of the entertainment being the competition for a silver medal presented by the supreme lodge of the above order for recitation. The judges were Messrs. A. W. Longmore, A. C. Rutherford and McKenzie, who filled their somewhat difficult task most satisfactorily. In fact they were unanimous in their choice of the first competitors, although separated during the time the pieces were being recited. The medal was awarded to No. 5 competitor, who proved to be Miss Grace Ritchie. She having obtained the highest number of marks for her rendering of Dr. Talmage's. Eight competitors recited, and during the interval between each piece, selections of music were rendered by the band. Songs by Mrs. Bennett and a dialogue by Misses Stevie, Moen and McKernan and an organ solo by Miss Bellamy. The medal was presented by Mr. A. C. Rutherford who made a few appropriate remarks upon the excellence of the recitations in general and the amount of patience that must have been exercised in getting them up.

BEAVER LAKE (EAST).

Geo. Smith met with a painful accident lately, having cut his foot very badly. He will be laid up for some time.

The Presbyterian church, here was finished on the 21st inst., and is a credit to all concerned. Almost all our settlers aided in erecting it either in work or cash. By an agreement with the trustees of Beaver Lake school district the people have the use of the building for school purposes for seven years. Rev. Alex. Forbes, after a somewhat disagreeable trip, arrived in time to conduct the opening services. There was a large congregation. After the opening service were, the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed, there being fourteen communicants.

On Monday evening an entertainment was held in aid of the building fund. Rev. A. Forbes presided. The following is the programme: Opening address by the chairman, Hymn, "Shall we gather at the river," Solo, "My Mother's prayer," Mr. Forbes. Recitation, "Our few must not ring to-night," Miss Nettie Asher. Solo, "Welcome," Wanderer, Welcoming, H. J. Stirling. Trio, "Thou' your suns be as scarlet," Misses Asher and Mr. Forbes. Quartette, "I saw a way worn traveller," Misses Asher and Messrs Forbes and Stirling. Duo, "One by one," Mrs. McAlister and Miss Asher. The second part of the entertainment was the story of "Christie's old organ," read by H. J. Stirling and illustrated by magic lantern views by Rev. A. Forbes. The proceedings were closed by the singing of the Star of Queen. A. K. Moody presided at the organ. Mr. Forbes has the thanks of all for his kindness in bringing his magic lantern, and coming so far give us so much of both pleasure and profit.

On Good Friday Rev. A. Stenden held morning service at St. John's church, and Bishop Pihlak held evening service at St. John's church.

JOHN WILLIAMS, of Clover Bar, was brought to the Edmonton hospital to-day suffering from a dislocated knee. The limb was injured some weeks ago.

Good Friday services were held in St. John's church at 9 a. m. by Rev. Father Lemarchand and Tessier, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon by Rev. Father Lemarchand.

Geo. PURCHES has been informed by the geological department, Ottawa, that the stones sent by him for analysis are topaz not diamond as was held. It becomes however valuable. It is third in hardness to the diamond. In color it is pale yellow, white, reddish, or greenish blue. Transparent to translucent. Infusible and not affected by acids. When used in jewelry the color is often altered by heat. It becomes electric on heating. It is composed of alumina and silica, and it found as loose crystals or pebbles and in veins in metamorphic rocks.

Tux insurance report issued by the government for the year ending 31st December, 1896, shows that from 1892 to 1896 the people of Canada paid $119,011,013 in premiums on fire insurance. During the same period the companies paid $82,821,965 for losses. In 1893 $9,986,926 was paid for premiums and $5,010,510 paid out for losses. For life insurance in 1893 the people of Canada paid in premiums $10,291,211 and received in payment of claims $3,750,679. This statement does not include the business done by friendly societies.

Easter service was held in All Saints church on Sunday morning. The sermon was by Rev. A. Stenden. The church was tastefully decorated with flowers. At the evening service eleven persons were confirmed as members of the church of England. Bishop Pihlak conducted the service. The church was crowded. The names of those confirmed were: Mrs. J. D. Harrison, Mrs. J. C. F. Brown, Mrs. G. B. Bragg, Miss Bush, Miss Foster, Miss Ethel Matheson, Miss Edna Matheson, Miss Mary Groat, Miss Doris, Mr. R. Foster, Geo. Groat. Excellent music was furnished by the choir at all the services.

THERE was a very pleasant gathering at Miss Phillips' music room, last Tuesday evening; the occasion being the annual reception given by Miss Phillips to her pupils, their parents and friends. The pupils acquitted themselves in a way that was very creditable to themselves and highly complimentary to their teacher, giving evidence as they did of conscientious training and faithful practice. Rev. G. W. Dean occupied the chair. The following is the programme: Instrumental duet, "Finale," Misses Lauder and Phillips; instrumental solo, "Little Fairy Waltz," Miss Violet Latimer; vocal solo, "The New Kingdom," Miss Clara Lauder; instrumental duet, "Minnie's Birthday," Master Willie Bragg and Miss Phillips; instrumental solo, "Cuckoo song," Miss Clara Lauder; vocal solo, "Junita," Rev. CONJURING CREEK.

Application has been made to the council of public instruction to erect a school district with Conjurong Creek as its name, taking in parts of townships 49, range 27, township 50, range 26, township 40, range 26, township 50, range 27, west 4th meridian, in all five miles square. School house to be built on section 36, township 49, range 27. There is also talk of forming a district immediately south of this one. Application has been made for a post office in this neighborhood, but we have not heard definitely in regard to it.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Telegram wires: "LaRiviere, the French conservative first minister, received a private message this morning in which it is stated that Senator Desjardins has had an interview with Archbishop Langevin. His grace is reported as expressing the hope that the Ottawa delegates will do all in their power to arrive at a settlement. He made it clear at the same time, that he will accept no measure that does not give the Catholics in the districts where they preponderate, the solid control of their schools. Archbishop Langevin is a believer in the consolidation of the Catholics of the province, and hopes that some such provision as this would unite them in almost one community."

PUBLIC LIBRARY.

A meeting for the purpose of forming a public library was held in the council chamber on Saturday afternoon. G. E. Grogan was voted to the chair. It was decided that a public library should be formed and that the society be called the Edmonton Library Association. The subscription was fixed at one dollar a year. The offer of E. L. Smith to allow shelf room in his store was accepted with thanks. The officers of the association were elected as follows: president, L. Cowie; secretary, G. E. Grogan; executive committee, K. W. MacKenzie, G. Goodall, H. C. Taylor, T. Bellamy and S. Chivers Wilson. The meeting adjourned till called by the executive, who in the meantime are to make all arrangements for opening the library, drawing up rules, etc. A number of books have already been promised and it is requested that all who have cloth bound books which they are willing to present to the library, will communicate with the secretary, G. E. Grogan. The association starts with over 60 members, and the committee hopes to have the library opened and running very shortly.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.
